XXII Concorso bandistico internazionale

Riva del Garda

05 - 07 November 2021

OPEN CATEGORY

In the open category, bands receive privately and outside of the competition a written assessment by the Jury. The positive artistic and technical aspects of the ensemble are taken into consideration and suggestions will be given.

The participation in this category involves also an assignment judgement, so that the bands can see how their standard relates in terms of the five Flicorno d'Oro categories. Bands taking part in the open category must perform two pieces of their own choice based on an original score, one of it must be an original band composition.

Preceding its performance each band is entitled to play a warm-piece not exceeding 3 minutes.

The programme - including the warm-up and the two pieces - must have an effective playtime of a maximum of 25 minutes and their stay on the stage must not exceed 30 minutes.

For the open category the jury will give a written judgement by the following criteria: tuning, quality and balance of the sound, technique and articulation, rhythmic and ensemble playing, dynamics and phrasing, interpretation.

At the end of the open category performances, for each of the participating bands, there will be a meeting with the jury to deepen, discuss and confront their observations. At the 20-minutes long meeting can participate two people per band (the conductor and one of his collaborators) and must be booked at the time of registration.

No prizes are foreseen in this category
